COMPLETE SOURCE OF NUTRITION

Borneo forest honey is rich in vitamins, minerals, amino acids, and antioxidants that function as natural energy, boost the immune system, maintain digestion, and help regulate blood sugar levels.

NATURAL PROTECTION

With its antibacterial, antifungal, and high antioxidant properties, Borneo forest honey is effective in fighting infections while maintaining health and preventing premature aging.

Production and Quality Assurance

Borneo forest honey is harvested sustainably from Apis Dorsata bee colonies, processed without heat to preserve natural enzymes and nutrients, and packaged sterilely under strict supervision. All products are officially certified and legally certified, ensuring quality and safety.

> High quality

Harvesting is carried out using traditional, environmentally friendly methods, preserving Borneo's tropical forests while empowering local communities.

> Trusted

Each product is laboratory tested, halal certified, and meets legal standards (NIB & P-IRT), so it is safe for consumption and ready to compete in the international market.

Be like the honey bee, anything it eats it eats is clean, anything it drops is sweet, and the branch it sits upon does not break.

(Jadilah seperti lebah madu, apa pun yang dimakannya bersih, apa pun yang dijatuhkannya manis, dan ranting yang didudukinya tidak patah.)
